Within our years
Of study at Grimsley lie
Untold hours of
Indecision of goals to choose
Anguish of striving to achieve
Despair of defeat not without Purpose and finally the Satisfaction of success.
This striving to reach a higher
Goal is a victory
Won.
Achievement marks the
Motivative force
Behind our Lives.

The 1971 WHIRLIGIG staff wishes to dedicate this book to the Senior Class for fulfilling one goal, a cornerstone in the foundation of their future . . .

Throughout our years
Of memories at Grimsley lie
Countless thoughts of
Smiling at a stranger
Sharing a burden with a friend
Cherishing a moment with a love.
Knowledge gained with
Each new understanding
Reached between people
Brings us closer
To knowing
Ourselves.
People form the
Molding force
Within our Future.

As we begin a new phase in our lives, we go forth to face a world with added faith and courage. We will stand upon our achievements and reach forward for the goals ahead. But we shall not walk alone, for with us will always be people, ideals, and a Divine Knowledge to aid us.

To achieve . . .

A goal worth striving for is to know a sense of pride, satisfaction, and self confidence. For reaching this goal, whether straining on a football field, playing in a concert, finishing a term paper, or receiving a diploma we have given a small part of the best of ourselves. All through our Grimsley lives we toil, strain, and pray to reach a higher goal.

The Grimsley story is one of preparation, individualism, pride, and knowledge. It began in the middle of last summer when Mr. Glenn started working on the student schedules. Many days and several nights, he studied each student's schedule to eliminate conflicts and to set up classrooms and study halls. Then came teacher workdays, when each teacher prepared her materials for the year, received text books, and filled out numerous forms.

Finally . . .

Mr. Glenn's smile (left), as he takes a last look at deserted halls, radiates deep love and pride for GHS and its students.

Seeds of learning begin to grow in cloudy, summer-filled minds

August 26, 1970: A student body of 2200 swarmed through Grimsley to receive homeroom assignments and schedules. Lockers banged. Feet shuffled. Books fell and bells rang as Grimsley officially opened. Summer thoughts and dreams faded into memories as minds were opened to learning.

An open book, an unanswered question, a puzzling formula—these are the seeds which may take root in a fertile mind. Nurtured by study, work, and independent thought, they may grow and ripen to produce a mature, enlightened invididual.

Tardy sophomores soon become acquainted with Dean's office

Lunch was a new experience for the average sophomore. Surely countless track records have been broken by eager sophomores racing from the science building to the parking lot, only to find they have missed their ride to lunch. September brought a rash of tardies. There always seemed to be an abundance of late sleepers, dead car batteries, upset stomachs, or flat tires the first few weeks of school. The line of these unfortunates began in Dean Stanton's office and spilled out into the main hall. Office assistants worked steadily, well into first period, until all the confusion was calmed.

By riding bicycles to school, students join the battle against air pollution.

Alone in its ecological movement, the familiar GHS trash can stands to remind students of the need for a clean campus.

Those students (left) not wishing to face cafeteria food automatically join the competition of the "MacDonald's 500 Race." The presence of a friend (below) makes a lonely walk to the deserted parking lot much easier to bear.

The fall brings set routines and many new friendships

Rich shades of red, yellow, and orange color Grimsley as fall approaches. Schedules and rides out to lunch arranged, books issued, and old freindships renewed, life at Grimsley flows into an even routine. For the sophomores Grimsley is a new and exciting experience. It takes a while for the sophomores to become accustomed to the bell schedule, break, and lunch period. Sophomores also find that GHS offers a varied curriculum and a chance to make many new friendships. The junior year is one of involvement. Juniors, familiar with the ways of Grimsley, become more a part of its functions through student council, school beautiful, pep board, clubs, and in countless other ways. Dedication best describes the senior year of Grimsley, for it is among the seniors that a deep pride and loyalty for Grimsley is developed. Leaders of the school, the seniors, with their three years of experience, determine its success.

Uniting spirit found throughout Grimsley molds individuals into industrious citizens

Spirit: A uniting force which begins to become contagious in the fall. A winning team supported by the crowd, an imaginative half-time show, cheerleaders spreading enthusiasm throughout a student body. These are but a few of the end results of spirit, preparation, and a lot of labor.

To accomplish a victory, Grimsley's football team began its long hours of practice in the middle of August, ignoring the heat and canceled beach trips. Each player did his part, whether on the field or off, to unite the team and promote spirit. A victory, or even a lost but well played game, brings a sense of pride uniting the team. This is the Grimsley spirit. It is found throughout the classrooms, on a term paper or in the class play — wherever dedicated students work to give the best of themselves.

"Top-em day" helps increase the ever-growing school spirit and provides a change of scenery.

"Kill Page" (above) is a widely shared desire of GHS students the week before GHS—PHS games. In the early morning students return to the shadowed campus of GHS.

Grimsley: a kaleidoscope of people and ideas; a world of differences, a united force

People, faces collaged, constantly on the move, changing with the times. A blend of individuals, in minis or maxis, with long hair or short — this is the motivating force behind Grimsley. Grimsley swells and changes as the people in it improve and create. Each individual is a unique being adding his traits to make Grimsley as a whole. A well presented "student day," a high mark on an exam, a completed art project — this is the work of an individual striving to achieve a higher goal. An individual improving himself is fulfilling the purpose of Grimsley. Although he may not be aware of it, he is adding a stone to the foundation under GHS. People co-operating on projects in student council, GYC, School Beautiful, and clubs are applying their energies to the improvement of themselves and their school. Through their efforts Grimsley is alive, teeming with the strength and abilities of hundreds. The people are the pillars of Grimsley.

Announcements that run into first period not only please students, but seem to delight Mr. Glenn.

"May I have your attention for the morning announcements?" Last-minute cramming and homeroom naps were interrupted at 8:35 by cheerful chimes and the friendly voice of Mr. Glenn beaming over the intercom. This became routine as first semester ended.

Silently a young man frowns. A feeling of pride glows on a junior's face, while tears mount in a senior's eyes. The first report card, a statement of achievements or failures has been issued. Private decisions are made to improve.Around this time of year Grimsley is flooded with salesmen. HIGH LIFE subscriptions start, DECA and various service clubs begin selling candy, juniors dole out two dollars for the PSAT tests, YRC promotes dance tickets, and the fall yearbook sale begins.

A willingness to serve is displayed by students during elections

On the stage, eleven people rose and promised to serve Grimsley faithfully. They were the newly elected sophomore members of Student Council, but this was not the beginning for them. The beginning came when each individual decided to run. Then came hours of preparing campaign banners, speaking to people, suffering stage fright, and worrying the night before elections. Not everyone can be elected to an office, but everyone can display a willingness and enthusiasm to serve, whether peddling pencils, participating in a pep board skit, performing in the band, or playing on a team. Not all services gain the student body recognition. Some students serve in small ways: by helping a student gather dropped papers, listening to a friend's problems, helping a new teacher quiet a class, or simply smiling at a stranger. These are the things which help to develop the character of an individual and a student body.

Some students (above) go to extreme heights to push their favorite candidate to the top of the ballot. Voter registration (right) is a time-consuming task, but worth the effort for a smooth-running election.

Time and work put into a campaign by a candidate and his supporters sometimes bring a victory.

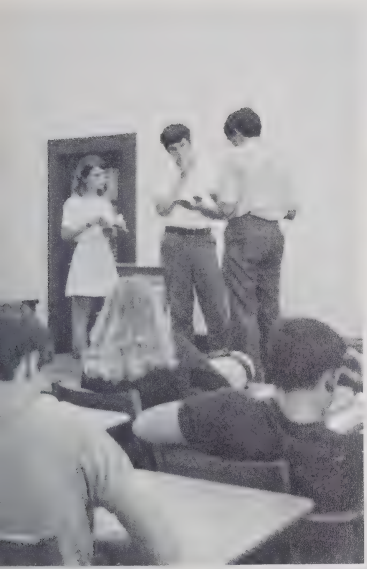
Rings and fallen leaves appear with autumn's chill

Leafless skeletons, constant reminders of winter's approach, mark Grimsley's campus. Cool crisp air livens one's spirits and makes it a little easier to stay awake in class. In the fall, juniors order their class rings. For GHS students, the ring is more than a simple band of gold, emblazoned with a "G". It is a symbol of an undying pride and loyalty. Around this time of year, tryouts for the junior class play begin. These school spirited juniors, under the direction of Miss Causey, work long afternoons and nights to make the play "Father Knows Best" a tremendous success.



WHIRLIGIG'S professional photographer has become a familiar face around Grimsley because of the many hours he has spent on campus.

Homecoming 1970 — a mixture of pride, spirit, and work

Guitars wail. An excited figure moves ecstatically across a raised platform. A thousand hands clapped in unison as a crowd swayed rhythmically to the vibrations of "Big Brother and the Holding Company." Homecoming, a tradition at Grimsley, is a mixture of pride, spirit, and a lot of work. Many individuals such as coaches, football players, student council and school beautiful members, the Homecoming court, the junior varsity cheerleaders, pep board, and countless others participated to make Homecoming 1970 a success. The air was crisp Saturday night as twenty-two radiant court members and their escorts paraded onto the field during half-time. Lisa Folk, the Reigning Queen, shared the glory with Coach Bob Jamieson, who for his service to the school and the community was honored Saturday also. The loss of the football game did not diminish the spirit of the evening. After the game, an enthusiastic crowd moved toward the gym to catch the sounds of "Big Brother" . . . a perfect way to end a successful evening.

Christmas spirit is borne on a wind of activities

Time never ceases, and very soon first semester is nearing a close. Grimsley is caught up in the Christmas spirit. Excitement fills the air and students find it hard to keep their minds on studies. Laughter sings through the hallways. A merry little bell, tied on someone's shoelace, signals her approach. French and Spanish students have learned foreign carols. The choir has begun practicing for the Christmas assembly. Halls and doorways are decorated with signs and colors of the season. Preparations for the Holiday dance have begun. Several service clubs give parties for underprivileged children. YRC and School Beautiful members work long hours on floats to be displayed in the Christmas Parade. Also displaying their skills in the parade is Grimsley's ROTC, the band and majorettes, and the Whirling Boots. Christmas at Grimsley means involvement for many.

New semester brings new courses and new books to study with.

The spirit and willingness to work continues through exams and the second semester

All too soon, first semester, football, and Christmas are over; and we turn our heads toward upcoming exams, basketball, and wrestling. Second semester is a chance to improve, to better ourselves, a new beginning. There are a few new students, a few courses dropped, and some schedules rearranged, but life at Grimsley flows smoothly on. Friday nights bring the student body, pep band, and cheerleaders together to urge on a winning basketball team. Behind each game are long hours of preparation, not only for the players but for the coaches, cheerleaders, pep board, and the pep band. This spirit and willingness to work by so many individuals provides the foundations upon which Grimsley is built. These are dedicated people who give their time and efforts to a larger cause in becoming involved.

Seniors' thoughts turn toward college, future, and fulfillment of dreams

With less than one semester of Grimsley left, seniors' thoughts turn to plans after graduation. Some seniors expect to work or to join the armed forces, but the majority of Grimsley's seniors are college bound. Armed with SAT scores and past achievements, and with a diploma in mind, hopeful seniors send off applications to all sorts of colleges. College. It was once a far away goal that was hardly dreamed to reach. But time has gone by so quickly, and dreams of yesterday are realities today. Twelve years of education and experience have molded character and placed foundations under ideas. Now, because of past experiences, seniors are able to leave Grimsley and follow a more independent and mature course of study.

To Winter-weary students Spring is a welcome relief

Time moves silently on as Grimsley's gray barren campus blossoms forth into yellow, white, and pink. Doors and windows open, and the warm air and blue skies lure everyone outside. Couples stroll hand in hand along the grassy lawn. School Beautiful and various service clubs begin the campus spring cleaning. Some classes meet under the trees. The traditional "Beach Weekend," the second weekend in May, officially begins at 3:30 when many GHS students flock to the South Carolina coast to enjoy a weekend of fun. Spring brings the annual Teenage Carnival which is organized and run by the youth of Greensboro involving such activities as pie-throwing or water dunking contests. Baseball fans flock together to support Grimsley's winning team. Spring at Grimsley also means the arrival of another most beautiful and captivating event . . .

May Day '70- an array of beauty and talent

Much thought, planning and work were combined to make May Day 1970 a success. May Day officially began in the fall when committees were organized. Then a script was written and characters were chosen. Next came long hours of after school practice for the dancers, hours of sewing costumes and painting scenery for nearly one hundred people. At last the appointed day arrived; and blue skies and dogwood blossoms welcomed spectators to the front lawn of Grimsley, where the mystical fantasy of May Day unveiled. Capturing the hearts of many were the blueberries, candy canes, and bluebirds, who were included in the age-old tale of Hansel and Gretel. The May Court, arrayed in pastel shades of green, blue, pink, and yellow, accompanied by their escorts, danced the traditional minuet before the spectators. The gingerbread men performed the rite of the May pole dance which is portrayed annually. Finally the trumpeters announced the end of the dream world and the climax of the event — the captivating smile of Gary Clemmons, the reigning queen of May Day 1970.

An enchanted evening: forever a time to remember

In the center of the room sits a large black monolith. Along the wall hang the twelve signs of the zodiac. Colorful streamers cling to the ceiling. A wilted corsage lies next to an empty glass on a chair in the corner. Discarded sandals lie next to the bandstand. Long dresses rustle as bodies move to the strains of the music. Couples stroll arm in arm across the dance floor. A blue tuxedo glistens in the pale light. People seem to be everywhere. The music surrounds and engulfs one's being. While the sound is heard, speech is impossible. A loving gaze, a hand reaching for another — this is communication enough. Hours pass away. Time has no meaning while the enchantment continues.

This was Prom, 1970, sponsored by the junior class. Juniors spent countless hours working on decorations, arranging for Freedom to play, and taking care of the necessary details to ensure a successful dance. Due to the well planned and organized efforts of the Juniors, Prom 1970 will remain a cherished memory in the hearts of Grimsley students.

Each individual (above) cherishes a special moment. Maybe this was yours? Seniors (left) will part ways, but there is still time for a last-minute show of friendship.

Joy of the Graduation— once achieved never lost

All too soon the days, weeks, and months have turned into years. As we leave Grimsley, let us have one last look at it. The time worn steps, the empty hallways, the language lab, a well smoothed auditorium seat — but this is not Grimsley. Grimsley is its people, whether screaming, crying, or laughing. Displaying spirit in a pep rally, molding pride within a person, or smiling at a stranger—this is Grimsley. It is countless beliefs and ideals, but all are one, molded by a growing pride and spirit. We as students are the power behind Grimsley and the loyalty binding it together.

For the seniors, Grimsley is over, a bright memory in the minds and hearts of many. For three years Grimsley has been a way of life providing friendship, loves, disappointments, and creating within us a light into the future. Only three years ago we came to seek and question. Now we must begin to use the background Grimsley has given us. A new phase of our lives has begun. Graduation is only the

Autographing WHIRLIGIGS not only brings friends closer but marks another year fulfilled.

Richard Kinsell Hunter

When Mr. Richard K. Hunter died in November 1970, his community and especially the schools lost a gifted leader and a loyal friend. Those who knew him well called him a fine citizen, a man who gave freely of his time and energy to help solve the problems of our schools. He had served on the Board of Education twelve years and as its chairman ten years. Educators in Greensboro felt a great sense of loss at his death. He will be long remembered.

Cundiff, William Johnson, J. J. Lentz; and Publicity Director Owen Lewis.* Below: Dr. W. J. House, Superintendent, at a reception given by Grimsley faculty for the graduating Seniors.

Hoping to solve problems Board of Education establishes Student Advisory Committee

Aims of the Greensboro School Board are to make school a meaningful experience and to provide the proper environment and interest, so that every student will receive a good education. To achieve these goals, the board constantly seeks new approaches in teaching environments and methods, such as more audio-visual aids, team teaching experiences, and smaller classes. Of primary concern to the board this year was the overcrowding in the schools. Board members proposed a five-year program calling for a new high school, five other schools and a more adequate use of school funds.

To approach the solving of problems in human relations and conditions in the high schools, the board established this year the Senior High Student Advisory Committee. This council discussed problems existing in high schools in a joint effort to solve them.

To bridge a gap in understanding, PTSA Board establishes a Human Relations Committee

Grimsley's PTSA provides an outlet for faculty, student, and parent discussions. Three parents and two students were picked as a committee, with which common problems could be aired. Mrs. Hackney, President, asked Mrs. Kenneth Brugh to work with the GHS student council in planning activities for Earth Day. In serving Grimsley, the PTSA paid for many useful and enjoyable features of GHS life.

Grimsley High School's progress or problems, whether large or small, are Mr. Lody Glenn's concern

Principal R. L. Glenn attacks the important matters awaiting him on his desk. Below, he shows the well-known smile with which he greets everyone at Grimsley.

Student: I don't understand why she flunked me, Mr. Glenn. She just doesn't like me.

Teacher: Mr. Glenn, my teacher load is thirty above the legal limit. And I have fewer desks than students.

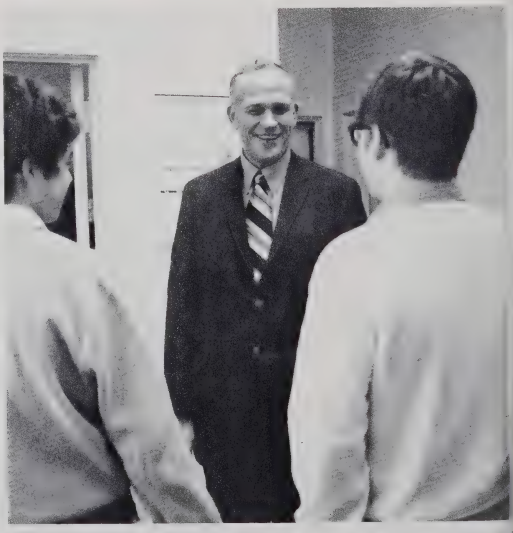
Guidance Counselor: This student is an under-achiever. He is just not applying himself.

"My door is always open to anyone, any time." This statement sums up Mr. Glenn's feeling and attitude toward Grimsley's students and faculty. The problems he handled are many and varied. Acting as friend and counselor before principal, Mr. Glenn spends most of each busy day in student conferences. Student problems range from educational to social to environmental difficulties. Mr. Glenn listens patiently and with understanding. Invariably he can offer solutions and help.

In his second year as Grimsley's principal, Mr. Glenn improved the curriculum by insisting upon newer and better textbooks in many areas. He has worked with several departments in re-evaluating and revising their courses to make them more relevant and helpful. He also approved the addition to our library of a large number of new books on Black history and contributions to American life.

Warm, friendly, and with an almost constant smile on his face, Mr. Glenn's towering frame is a familiar and welcome sight among Grimsley's people.

Mr. Glenn is never too busy to hear about the interests and the needs of GHS students.



Although serious in many aspects, Mr. Andrew Canady finds time (right) to listen attentively to students. Providing the Dean's Office with an atmosphere of warmth and friendliness, Mrs. Daphne Stanton (below) daily attends to the problems and needs of the student body and faculty.

Assistant Principal and Dean handle school matters with poise, patience, and understanding.

With patience, understanding, and a ready smile, Mr. Andrew Canady attends to the mulitude of assistant principal duties. He supervises Grimsley's fleet of thirty-two buses with their 3100 passengers, directs the operation of the bookroom, disciplines unruly students, gives the morning and afternoon announcements, and aids Mr. Glenn. This year he also organized three intramural sports for the service clubs. Despite his busy schedule, Mr. Canady finds the time to take a genuine interest in the students and help them with their problems.

Another very active person at Grimsley is Dean Daphne Stanton, who has the sometimes hectic task of operating the Dean's Office. Cheerfully serving more than 2300 students, Mrs. Stanton is daily occupied with the complicated jobs of overseeing the clinic, handling attendance records, tardy slips, and early dismissals.

The primary aims of the guidance department are more for reaching than just meeting the educational needs of a student. The counselors hope to help a student with educational and vocational planning, as well as personal and social adjustments. Working well past the regular 8:30 to 3:30 hours, the counselors, Mrs. Moody, Mrs. Harrell, Miss Schiffley, and Mrs. Nelson, seek to meet the needs of a student through tests, counseling, parental conferences, and with the aid of community agencies. The job of counseling twenty-one hundred students is almost overwhelming, but the counselors, with patience and dedication, strive to meet the needs of each individual student.

A place for extensive research, resources to meet every need— GHS Library supplies both

For a book just to enjoy, for a classic to satisfy an English teacher's assignment or a biography for history, for the most up-to-date articles on the heart pacer or modern witchcraft for research papers, for a place to sit and read either the local dailies, the New York Times, or a magazine, for a book to suggest club refreshments or another to make an art project easier, for a film or a recording to enrich a teacher's class in poetry or play reading, even for a place to hold a meeting — for these and many other useful services and enjoyable materials, we go to the Grimsley Library.

On their first visit to the GHS library, left, sophomores check out books for both pleasure reading and an assigned report. Above: The card catalogue is constantly in use by students building a research paper bibliography.

English 1971 . . . an insight into the past surging forth with guide lines for the future

Students in English 1971 viewed guidelines for an insight within themselves. Sophomores felt a deeper sense of maturity as they grew with the experiences of Jim and Scout in To Kill A Mockingbird. In The Red Badge of Courage, juniors were encompassed within a world larger than themselves. Seniors relived through Hamlet the conflict between self and others. Yet reading was only a part of English this year. The foundations of the English language and the history and men behind it also played a large role. To unify efforts by the entire English department and to make the senior year more stream-lined, all students at every level were required to write a term paper.

In striving to make English more relevant to the students, the new department heads, Miss Joyner and Mrs. Hoffler, began a program to re-evaluate the department, seeking new directions with more emphasis on the individual study. The program, hopefully to begin next year, will consist of electives optional to the juniors and seniors with a basic emphasis on skills for the sophomores. The electives will range from Shakespeare to Black literature to creative writing. The foundations have been laid calling for more student-oriented classes.

Miss Moore's Shakespeare class found new enjoyment and a deeper meaning in reading Shakespeare's works. In dramatic readings, the students sometimes used modern interpretation of the Elizabethan language to obtain a profound and more enlightened understanding. Having few tests, the pupils studied the Elizabethan period and the individual aspects of Shakespeare through parallel reading and research papers.

Painted scenery, appropriate costumes and dramatic readings give novice actors a real taste of the theatrical world

The thrill of opening night electrifies the air. Anxious make-up committee members hurry about, adding dramatic black lines to eyebrows, heavy rouge to pale cheeks. The scenery that was both fun and hard work, the right costumes, the appropriate props — everything is ready. The cast, faces caked with make-up and hands moist and trembling, wait quietly backstage. Then the curtain rises, and the Grimsley Playmasters get a real taste of the theatrical world.

Members gather once a month to learn more about plays and acting. Guest speakers brought the theater closer; dramatic readings improved the novice actors character portrayals. The group performed a one-act play, "Sunday Costs Five Pesos" at a district meeting during March. Then in April, the Playmasters staged the comedy "I Remember Mama," a full length play.

Language courses aim at building vocabularies and an appreciation of other cultures

Language
A common bond
Uniting yet keeping
people apart.
The learning of
Another tongue
Is the combining of
Peoples and an Understanding is Reached.

The learning of another people's language is the beginning of understanding a culture different from our own. This is the goal of the language department, headed by Miss Wales. This year the teachers use less English in their classes in order to increase their students' vocabulary. In level one of French and Spanish, students' study is based on dialogs; in level two, the students pursue basic vocabulary sentences, while third and fourth year students undertake the reading of stories. New to the department this year is the addition of a fifth level of French.

In first-year Latin, pupils study basically vocabulary and word derivatives. In second year, the students learn grammar, and the fourth and fifth levels are concerned mostly with the translation of Latin works.

GHS Junior Classical League with new advisor, works toward convention and end-of-year party

The 1970-71 Junior Classical league began a new year of Latin linked actvities with the official JCL induction ceremony. Four lighted candles, each representing the four years of Latin offered at Grimsley, were the basis of the traditional ceremony. Each new member passed his hand over the flames to invoke the "light of Latin" to guide him through his studies. The afternoon meetings that followed provided members with new knowledge of certain Roman customs and practices. A special gathering at Christmas, the Roman Saturnalia, offered refreshments from talented "Romans", songs, and enjoyment of Roman background.

Planning for the state convention activities and for the final social meeting in the spring kept eager JCL members busy for the entire year. Everyone who participated enjoyed the season of fulfillment in JCL — the meetings, activities, and convention. But perhaps new advisor Miss Mildred Maddox enjoyed best the interest expressed by the dedicated members and officers who made up this year's JCL.

Grimsley's History Department up-dates itself by promoting individuality and involvement

The light of the past
Reflecting into the future
Guidelines to history
Now in the making

Grimsley's history department, directed by Mrs. Mary Gamble, sharpened its emphasis on the study of history in the light of its significance to the present. Recent films, current events papers, group discussions, parallel readings, library research, and faculty lectures all contributed their share of this emphasis on the present. Team-teaching history, now in its second year, drew a large number of students interested in individual study. This course included lectures, discussions of current events, and weekly library reading. Eliminating the traditional reliance on testing, team-teaching brought out the individuality of students through research papers and book reviews.

American and World history at GHS included a thought-provoking game, "Dangerous Parallels," student-led discussions, new and interesting projects to supplement the teacher lectures.

Sociology, taught by Mrs. Ringer and Mr. Whisenant, sparked the interest of many GHS students. This course included a study of relationships between people. A course in government, led by Mrs. Proctor, drew students interested in current affairs.

In Mr. Phil Weaver's history class, a student's report, with map and diagram, amplifies the study of the Civil War period.

From biology to chemistry Grimsley's young scientists pursued the basic truths

The birth of life
The breaking bending
Tearing away of earth's surface
The energies breathing within
Our bodies
And the elements
Binding us together—
Science pulsating living within
Our lives.

Science is a moving force in our lives. Biology, for sophomores, deals with the relationships from basic units of life — single-celled creatures — to the higher, more complex structure of man. Because of the students' recent concern for pollution, the biology department placed new emphasis on ecology. Students took field trips to different areas of Grimsley's campus to observe and study the interdependence of plant and animal life. They also studied the devastating effects of man's creations upon nature.

Advanced biology dove deeper into the interrelationships of plants, animals, and man. Reproduction, genetics, and embryology were only a part of the program covered by the students.

The simplest unit of life — the atom was the subject of much discussion in chemistry this year. Students observed, experimented, and drew conclusions in their study of liquids, gasses, and solids.

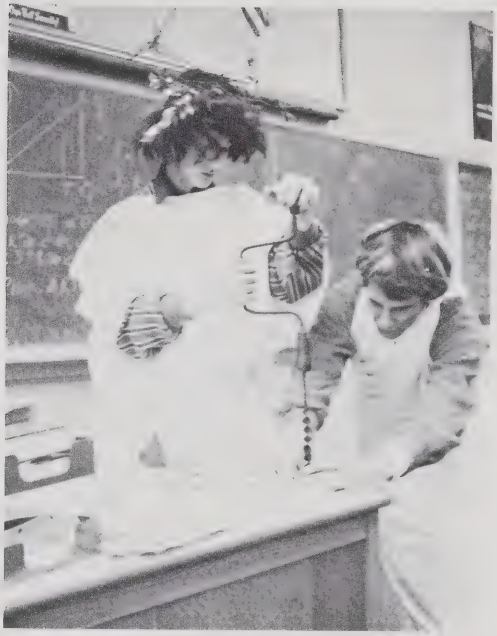
The math department, under a new chairman, Mrs. Julia Roe, continued this year to baffle and amaze many students. Algebra and geometry, traditionally taken by most students, are followed by trig and college algebra. For the mathematical minded, GHS offers elementary analysis, involving college algebra, trig, and analytical geometry, and calculus. Physics, also offered at Grimsley, is a science dealing with the properties and reactions of matter and energy. Final in the GHS math program is computer science. It acquaints students with computers and teaches them one of many language programs.



In geometry class two boys make their demonstration of Archimedes' law of displacing matter more authentic with costumes.

Being both head of the Math Department and watch-dog over student credits keeps Mrs. Julia Roe very busy.

Home economics courses blend learning experiences with actual preparation and fun

Grimsley's home economics department helps prepare an individual for life upon leaving the home through courses in sewing, foods, children, and the family unit. In clothing, girls learn more than just sewing a garment. The course also includes wardrobe planning, comparative buying, and fabric selection. Learning to balance meals was only a part of foods this year. During Valentines, the girls made cookies and cakes of red and white hearts. The girls also learned to prepare dinners, desserts, salads, and other foods. In child development, students study the child and his behavior from conception to age six. Planning and preparing a shower for an expectant mother was one of the main projects of the class. The basis of our modern society is the family unit which is the major topic of family life. The class, composed of members of both sexes, study heredity, mental illness, problems arising from our modern society, and other topics of the student's concern. A mock wedding, in which the class chooses the bride and groom and the rest of the wedding party, is the major project of the class.

Miss Caudill's class, on a field trip arranged by Piedmont Natural Gas, learns how to make useful and decorative articles from common, inexpensive materials.

Grimsley's FHA Chapter, busy and generous, completes many worthwhile activities

An executive board meeting held in August '70 opened a new and varied list of projects for the Grimsley chapter of FHA. Speakers, projects, and fund-raising events marked the club's major activities this year. One of the most interesting programs was a December gathering to see a demonstration of Christmas arrangements made with dried materials and foliage by Mrs. Mary F. Sigmon.

Projects included bake sales and clothing collected and donated to the Salvation Army. During each holiday season, the club exhibited decorative ideas in the showcase of the Home Economics building. In each classroom of the building, the club placed a bulletin board displaying information about the courses taught there. To raise money for the "Crying Girl" drive, the girls sold license plates.

Conventions, a district rally, the Mother-Daughter banquet, and the Tea for Seniors were continued as traditional activities of the chapter. Through the regular covered-dish dinner meetings, the interesting programs, and the worthwhile activities, Grimsley's FHA members gained valuable experiences in their preparation for the role of future homemaker.

Courses in typing, shorthand, and business machines provide valuable skills for the future

Mr. Frank Bondanella, typing instructor, goes over a test with students to clarify details and prevent future mistakes.

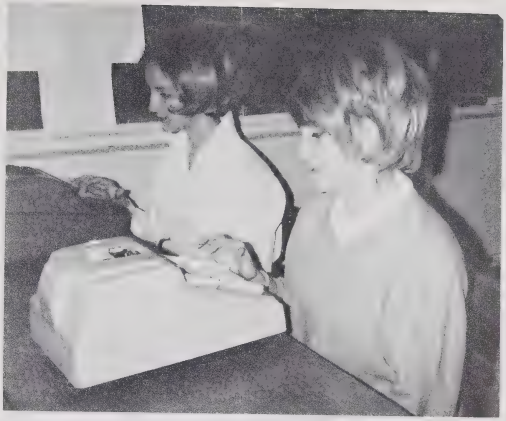
A typical GHS student strolls into typing class, unconcerned. Typing can't be that hard, he says confidently — last time he looked he had two sets of fingers and half a brain. What else does one need? He gets acquainted with Teacher and his impersonal typewriter. He begins to get uneasy when he stares at the keyboard and it stares back. But his initiation is easy enough: f,j,f,j,f,j. Our hero pounds the keys joyfully with his pudgy fingers. The rhythm of clacking keys and ringing bells excites his weak mind and he learns that he must add to his repertoire of letters and memorize the position of the keys. He must strive for accuracy, then speed, all the while trying not to breathe the disagreeable cafeteria air. By the time "mgrct" becomes "great," he can type anything from office forms to letters. Speed and accuracy are stressed in the reading and writing dictations of the shorthand symbols. Another course that will help one greatly in the business world is business law. Here, the student learns how law pertains to business; he examines contracts and learns how and when they are used.



To improve quality of their work on the jobs they hold, COO students practice regularly in their class at Grimsley.

For what they lacked in number, COO girls made up in enthusiasm and hard work. The six girls and their coordinator managed to hold the club together in spite of many jobs requiring night work and the scarcity of meetings. With a December candy sale they raised funds to pay their share of the spring city-wide banquet for employers. And for this affair they served on committees and helped to provide a program.

Vocational students earn both experience and money in the business world

Students enrolled in one of Grimsley's three cooperative courses have the opportunity of receiving on-the-job training in a chosen career. While they earn the envy of other students for their freedom to leave school early, they also earn cash and invaluable experience in some area of the real business world. These students leave school after attending three or four classes and spend their afternoons on a job. For students of Industrial Cooperative Training, this might be that of a mechanic, a nurse's aide, or a dental technician. A Distributive Education student would most likely hold a selling position in a store; while members of Cooperative Office Occupations hold such jobs as file clerk, typist, or receptionist.

Students who complete these programs, hold two units of credit toward graduation, good job references, and solid working experience.

Grimsley's DECA chapter adds new honors to collection of awards

Grimsley's chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America began the 1970-71 school year by accepting the organization's highest award — the thirteenth such award in thirteen years. A new coordinator, Mrs. Barbara Coble, replaced Mrs. Margaret Hadden, who had retired last June and whose last group it was that had earned that thirteenth award.

The accent this year was on competition, and throughout the year club members added other honors to the club's superior record. A very useful project they undertook this year was a share in making a film on occupational training, to be used for publicity for the vocational program. Another project was a survey to find out how the DECA program had benefited twenty-one former students in their present careers. To help familiarize officers with their duties, several members attended a district meeting and training session at Ragsdale High School.

ICT—VICA member Harris wins district trophy in job interview contest

Members of the ICT course turned into a VICA chapter when they met outside class time or whenever they cooperated in one of their varied projects. They aided the county in preparations for a centennial by working to uncover the foundations of the oldest school in the area and of its founder, Dr. David Caldwell. To help pay for trips to district meetings and for the Bosses' Banquet in the spring, each club member took his share of candy bars to sell around school. A generous project they shared was providing groceries for a needy family at Christmas.

One activity that many of the members looked forward to periodically was the three district meetings. A training session in leadership for the new members was held last fall. In February a district meeting for contests took place at Southeast Guilford School, with competition in such areas as public speaking, parliamentary procedure, scrapbooks, and safety demonstrations. The job interviewing contest was won by Lila Harris of Grimsley. Third district meeting was devoted to electing district officers and comparing the year's accomplishments with other VICA chapters.

Lila Harris displays the trophy she won at a district meeting. She took first place in job interviewing and will represent her chapter at the state meeting in Durham.

Mr. Sutton's machine shop classes met one night monthly as a chapter of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America. Technical courses in wood, machines, and electronics train boys in valuable skills

Mr. Mays, above, with an overhead projector, shows his students a schematic drawing. Right: Electronics student assembles a radio from a schematic drawing.

Through Grimsley's occupational shop program, students gained knowledge in various phases of electronics, machine shop, and woodworking. While most boys selected these courses for job training, many others enrolled simply because they enjoyed the course itself and the chance to work in a creative manner.

The different courses meant different things to individual students. To many woodshop boys their course meant helping work on the grandfather clock that really told time. Machine shop meant a custom-made stick shift or an inertia trailer hitch. An electronics student could pride himself on actually constructing a stereo amplifier. In all of the courses, such projects helped students apply knowledge and ideas and gave them experience in creatively using and maintaining the tools of the trade.

In the freedom of art or the disciplines of drafting, imagination is vital

Forms take shape, a creation emerges
—The outpouring of self complete

A loom hums quietly in a corner, breaking the solitude of individuals creating. Threads, canvases, and clay models adorn the walls. A simple sign "Barney lives" hangs upon the door. This is Room 409, the art room, where students learn the principles and design elements of art, along with the techniques of creating. More advanced art students begin to specialize in a chosen area and work upon portfolios, or collections, of their work. Unique to GHS and to advanced art students is Barney Day — a day upon which each individual may most fully express his talent.

Mr. Darnell's drafting classes are also concerned with creating. There aspiring engineers and architects learn something about the nature of their chosen fields. Students learn to think imaginatively and to express their thoughts in a creative manner. Beginning with the fundamentals of drafting, they frequently work up to designing their own homes.

Striking costumes, harmony, and mellow tones — these make Choir and Madrigals captivating

Grimsley's choir delighted many audiences through numerous concerts this year. In November, the Page and Grimsley choirs presented a concert at Page auditorium with a guest director. At Christmas, the choir entertained Lion's Club members and the GHS student body, then performed at the Coliseum for a Chamber of Commerce banquet. A barbeque dinner helped pay for stereo equipment for the choir room.

The Madrigals, a group of twenty-four talented students, performed this year at several charity functions, for a wedding reception, and several other engagements. The Madrigals sing music of the Fifteenth Century, highly ornamented and rich with romantic history. In costumes of the period, the Madrigals captivate audiences.

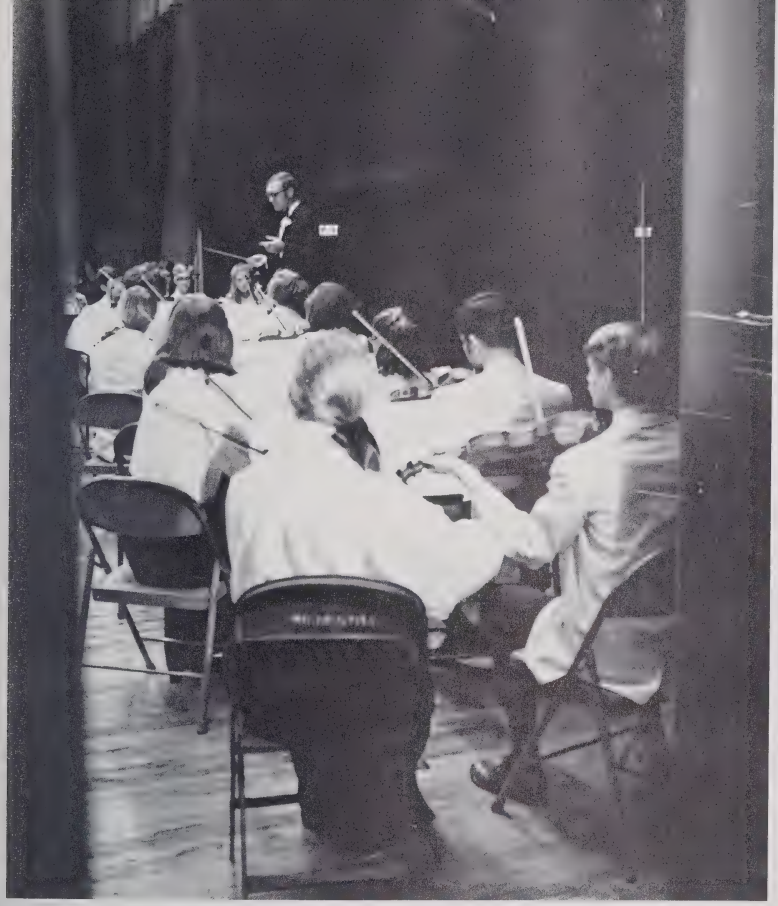
GHS Orchestra, playing well both the classical and the contemporary, wins All-State honors at ECU

Fourth period, music building, orchestra room: The melee of voices and laughter, punctuated with strange, un-Beethoven-like noises from the cellos and violins, crescendoes and then comes to an abrupt halt. Director Charles Jones' entrance signals the start of noisy tuning, followed by a noble attempt at the music compositions under study. The members practice diligently, if not always note-perfectly, to perform well both classical and contemporary music. Every six weeks, students compete for chairs in each section.

The orchestra held concerts in the fall and in February. In May, Concerto Night featured senior soloists. Members sold boxes of stationery in December to finance a concert trip later in the school year. Another major event was the March weekend in which auditions for All-State Orchestra were held at East Carolina University.



Bows poised, violinists await Director Jones' signal to begin a concert. Below: Happiness is tucking a violin under your chin to produce beautiful music.

Concert, Marching, and Pep bands delight audiences, lift spirit, and win awards

Blends of tones flowed gently and the percussion blared forth as Grimsley's Concert Band delighted the student body during five performances this year. Behind each concert were long hours of group and individual practice. This year five members qualified for All-State Band.

On the field, blue and white uniforms shuffle expertly for position. Finally a steady beat emerges. Under Mr. Booth, the eighty-member Marching Band performed at football games, marched in the Christmas Parade, and was rewarded with the Greensboro Holiday Jubilee Award.

"Hawaii 5-0", "Casino Royal", "The Stripper" are familiar tunes of the GHS Pep Band. Directed by Chuck Tucker, the band inspires school spirit at basketball games.

GHS musicians win sixty-one coveted chairs in 1971 All-State Band

A soft melody flows into an even rhythm. Musicians sit poised, eyes flickering from conductor to music. Rich tones emerge from the brass sections. Thundering drums pound forth the beat. A crescendo builds in the auditorium and rises to a climax, then suddenly music softens and stops. There is a moment's silence; then a thunderous burst of applause erupts from the audience.

Quality and excellence summarize Grimsley's symphony band this year. With Mr. Hazelman as director, the band performed five concerts. Mr. Decker, Mr. Sampson, Mr. Booth, Mr. Murph, and Mr. Rooker coached the individual sections of the band. Reaching the height of excellence, the band placed sixty-one members in the All-State Band.

In keeping with tradition, the band planned a five-day trip to Nassau this summer.

Grimsley's Marine JROTC unit shows pride in their services, precision in their performance

Pride, spirit, teamwork, sweat, and one hundred boys composed Grimsley's ROTC group this year. Under the leadership of Col. Booker and M/Sgt. Zales, the boys undertook several school services such as raising and lowering the flag each day, raising of the colors during athletic games, and aiding in the parking of traffic at extra-curricular activities. On November 7, the boys donned their dress blues for a formal combination dinner and ball at the Statler-Hilton. In May, the ROTC group held its annual parade and review ceremony for the student body.

Marching, shooting, inspections, and bookwork are daily routines for the ROTC group, but ROTC includes much more. It is a leadership program, developing within a boy self-confidence, discipline, leadership, and a pride in himself and his unit.

Everyone enjoys the Marine Corps Birthday Ball, including the GHS commander and Mrs. Hagan, wife of the guest speaker.

For scholarship, talent and extra effort GHS students win recognition and honors

To receive an honor is to receive more than recognition for hard work and skills. It is an award of pride one gives himself. A commendable service, an excellent mark, a task completed — these are honors all strive to obtain each day. Although these personal honors may not merit the recognition of the student body, they will not pass unnoticed. From the work completed and the pride developed from achieving small successes, larger honors blossom.

Grimsley offers several honors for scholarship, talent, and effort above the average. The National Merit Scholarships go to students who score very high on a difficult test. Even for semifinalists a high score is prestigious. The "I Speak for Democracy" contest involves students for the entire county, then the state and nation, and rewards for winning are valuable. Only one student from each local high school is chosen to serve on the Curriculum Study Committee, an extremely important group. The Presidential Classroom for Young Americans draws 350 students from across the nation, only one from Grimsley. Competition for a scholarship and the thrill of keen rivalry in brain-power rewards Hi-IQ bowl contestants. Attending Girls or Boys State, to serve as representatives of Grimsley's student body, or having the superior opportunities and experiences that come to the few chosen to study at Governor's School — such achievements bring not only recognition from fellow students and faculty, but, more important, a sense of pride and accomplishment from achieving well.

Nineteen seniors were honored in fall tapping of Torchlight

A gentle tap on the shoulder, a shining light in a trembling hand — and a new member is tapped into Torchlight. The glow of the candle is reflected in the luminous faces of those honored by the society. This induction ceremony is a climax to several hard years of maintaining at least a 3.4 average and exhibiting leadership and good citizenship qualities. Outstanding seniors are recognized in the fall; seniors and juniors in the spring.

Torchlight members, under the direction of Mrs. Manahan and Miss Moore, met twice monthly for business purposes. Members staged an annual talent show in the GHS auditorium in the spring. Participants were from the student body. Profits from the show went for a scholarship which was awarded to an outstanding senior. This year the members sponsored a tutoring service to aid struggling students.

Torchlight, the GHS honor society, signifies scholarship, leadership, citizenship, and service. Its members exemplify these characteristics and so honored by the society.

Student volunteer aides make the daily business of GHS move more smoothly

The daily business of running GHS demands plenty of student help. There are countless errands to be run from offices to classrooms. There are many phones to answer, clerical duties to perform, attendance calls to make. The books in the bookroom need counting or carrying; a program in assembly or at night calls for many arrangements on the stage. In the school store customers demand quick service. Without dozens of willing student helpers, Grimsley's offices and other vital areas could never function as fully or as smoothly.

Club officers and a Council provide a closer link between GHS faculty and Administrators

Grimsley teachers have what may be unique among Greensboro schools — an Advisory Council — to serve as a liaison between individual faculty members and their administrators. They meet to discuss faculty suggestions, problems, proposals, and an occasional grievance. Next they convey ideas and needs to Mr. Glenn; then their chairman, Robert Fredrickson, reports results. And there really are results: problems find solutions, suggestions become facts, grievances get clarified and shrink to nothing. With the Council's help, changes come more easily and quickly.

This year the Council supervised choosing Mr. Andrew Canady as Grimsley's nominee for Outstanding Young Educator from Greensboro schools. They also conducted an election for Grimsley's Teacher of the Year nominee, and Miss Peggy Joyner was chosen.

Another of the Council's services is helping new teachers with their immediate problems and responsibilities. New teachers are honored, too, at a party given by the Faculty Club early each fall to get to know each other better. The favorite menu each year includes hamburgers cooked by Mr. Glenn and helpers. The Club also sends flowers to ill members, gives gifts for marriages and retirement, and helps the Council in its major duties of better communication, policies, and change.

Griswold is elected president and Craddock treasurer of District Library Council

Sacrificing their study periods, the library assistants channeled their energies into the efficient maintenance of library services. The volunteers found magazines for impatient term paper authors, punched library permits, shelved books, gave information to frustrated seekers of wisdom, carried heavy audio-visual equipment and materials to near or distant classrooms, and straightened many rows of books made crooked by a steady stream of hundreds of students. The days of wielding rubber stampers in checking out books have given way, this year, to the ecstatic abandonment of feeding the date-due cards into the new electric book charger.

Problems in operating the library were discussed in weekly meetings, held every Wednesday before school. In November, at the district library meeting, Amy Griswold and Terry Craddock were elected president and treasurer respectively. Then when the state convention took place at Durham in April, delegates from Grimsley were Margie Gibbs, Helen Ross, Martha Somers, and Anita Warwick, and advisor Miss Mildred Herring.

"Eager, Spirited" Staff engineers the production of this 1971 Whirligig

It was the day before the yearbook went to press — an occurrence that brought Excedrin headaches and jangled nerves. Into this den of confusion strode manfully a spectaled, odd little individual. Now enter a typical Whirligiger — clean of heart, loud of mouth, and soft of head — William Whirligig.

Said our man Willy: "Yes, sir?"

Replied odd little individual: "I am making an in-depth study of the diverse habits of one rare species, the Whirligigus."

Immediately volunteering his services (an act unusual among yearbook-ees), Willy conducted the strange character around 861, official Whirligig headquarters. Ah, what drama reigned within four walls! Two girls attacked typewriter keys with the same intensity with which they chewed their gum. A harried photographer dashed out to take one last picture. The running-head-and-caption department figured how they could avoid using "spirit", "enthusiasm" and "eager students" on every other page. Other writers squeezed ideas from the much-squeezed orange of creativeness. Some proofread copy. And everybody talked.

The odd little individual ran about, burying his nose and glasses in sheafs of paper, asking questions. Were you in yearbook for (a) fun, (b) profit, (c) otherwise? Many c's. After other pertinent questions, the stranger left, escorted to the door by a solicitous Willy, who exclaimed: "My goodness gracious me, wasn't that fun!"

The stranger withheld comment.

High Life — the voice of the students includes the time and efforts of dedicated staff members

Monday: bustle of noise, scrambling for pictures, papers, and copy, hasty check for completion, and finally a sigh of relief as work is over. Such is the routine inside the High Life room each Monday. With the advice of Miss Lovett and editor Fred Thompson, twenty-five students go through week after hectic week to produce Grimsley's paper. Mondays include a trip to the printers, not to mention getting everything typed and prepared. Wednesdays are consumed by proof reading and the proper laying out of pages. By the following week the finished papers are received by students, and the process must begin again. Without the support of the GHS student body, along with various ads, High Life could not be produced. Many people fail to notice the work behind the paper, but the dedicated staff, nevertheless, strives to see that views of Grimsley reaches each and every student.

Saturday mornings during the fall and spring found an assortment of hoes, rakes, brooms, and barefoot people spread over Grimsley's campus, weeding, cleaning, and scrubbing. This year over four hundred people were involved with Grimsley's School Beautiful committee. With Cynda Crawford as head, School Beautiful sponsored several workdays and anti-litter projects. During the fall anti-litter week, the committee held a "guess the litterbug" contest with a prize of five dollars to a boy or girl winner. They also gave out litter bags to students, urging them to keep the city clean. During Christmas, School Beautiful members assembled a float, "Christmas in Mother Goose Land", which won second place in the Christmas Parade.

One of School Beautiful's main projects this year was helping with redesigning of Grimsley's campus. Mr. Lewis, landscape architect for the city schools, drew the plans proposing the new design. Work was begun in the spring and will be continued next year.

One School Beautiful project is decorating for Christmas.

Council agenda at a regular Tuesday morning meeting is interesting and urgent enough to supersede even review for an imminent test.

Grimsley's elected representatives work to improve our school and its surroundings for all

With enthusiasm and determination to be a true government of the students, the Student Council began the school year. A major issue then was the drafting of a new GHS constitution that would guarantee a more effective and meaningful government. Although this constitution was ultimately rejected, the Council members strove to improve the present one.

Besides the usual projects such as Homecoming and providing the maids and janitors a bountiful Thanksgiving dinner, the Council undertook several other projects. A paperback library with student-donated books to supplement the school library collection, was set up in the auditorium balcony. The Council sponsored Earth Week in the spring to promote awareness of ecology problems. One of the most valuable Council actions was their organizing a Suggestion Committee to study ideas from students. Meeting weekly, this committee concentrated on such suggestions as making examinations optional for any student with a 3.0 average in a given subject.

Greensboro Youth Council works for greater interest and involvement: Being an active part of GYC is planning and learning, performing and serving

The Greensboro Youth Council is . . . planting a donated Christmas tree to help beautify our community . . . sacrificing a precious Saturday to play games with underprivileged children . . . memorizing lines for a part in the annual Barn Theater Christmas show . . . interviewing a personality on the WFMY-TV program, "The Thirteenth Hour" . . . delivering a brief radio report on GYC activities to a multitude of WCOG listeners . . . becoming more fully aware of ecology problems . . . and so much more.

GYC strove this year to help more young people get interested and involved in community affairs. This goal was realized in such projects as the Desegregation Survey, Youth Advisory Board, discussion cells in which teenagers expressed their ideas, Operation Christmas Tree, Youth Employment Service, and Project Sharp. GYC also sponsored the seventh annual High IQ Bowl and Thalhaimer's Christmas Present Wrapping project.

Major entertainment projects were the Teenage Talent Show, the yearly Teenage Carnival and the Barn play, "See How They Run", performed on December twenty-eight.

YRC combines energy and creative ideas to make dances successful

"Who wants to buy a ticket to the dance Saturday night?" was the familiar wail of YRC members. YRC sponsored three dances this year, featuring such talented music groups as Big Brother and the Holding Company and Partly Clowdy. At Thanksgiving YRC members built a float for the Merchants' Christmas Parade. On February 12, YRC-sponsored TWIRP day found boys the recipients of feminine chivalry and victims of an all-girl traffic squad in picturesque costumes inspired by Valentine. The next night the TWIRP dance, or "Boys' Night Out," gave GHS boys another opportunity to enjoy the reversal of roles, with girls doing the escorting and the paying. It was such creative ideas as TWIRP day and dance that made the Youth Recreation Council such a success in Grimsley's year.

Speeches, luncheon and a tea for teachers marked American Education Week by members of FTA

Grimsley's future teachers, eager to learn as much as possible about a teaching career, plunged into numerous activities. In October, the FTA celebrated American Education Week. Brief talks by members on the morning announcements stressed the importance of education. At a luncheon in the GHS cafeteria, FTA officers served guests involved in education. Members honored Grimsley teachers with a festive autumn tea, catered with assorted baked goodies by the club's competent junior chefs.

In November, the officers and advisor, Miss Causey, attended the district convention in Salisbury. Via workshops, they learned what their state brothers and sisters were doing. Also in the fall, members held an important discussion with four UNC-G student teachers to learn firsthand the impressions of the fledgling teachers. Another important event was the state FTA convention at Duke University in March.

By the bell, 2200 students converge upon GHS hallways, are detoured by Lynch's Squad

As a bell rings signifying the time to change classes, it also sounds an alarm to be wary of the hallways at GHS. One could not survive the trampling through without the Traffic Squad, those thirty-three senior boys, who directed by John Lynch, attempted to prevent major casualties, keep students moving through the right doors and stairways, and provide directions for lost sophomores. In addition, anonymous phone calls from mad bombers, who are more likely students unprepared for a test have made the Traffic Squad the Grimsley "bomb squad". Sacrificing two minutes of class time, the Squad leaves class for their posts. After confused sophomores and obstinate juniors and seniors have been directed on their way, and all is quiet, the Traffic Squad return two minutes late for their next class.

Several schools depend on GHS drivers to transport 3028 pupils every school day

Motors race and wheels spin as thirty-two sleepy bus drivers begin their morning bus routes. Rising at 6:30 or earlier, they start their responsibilities while most of GHS students are still asleep. Amid noisy chatter, barking dogs, and other impatient drivers, these Wheel Club members transport elementary, junior and senior high pupils safely to their schools. Each driver averages 44 miles per day, a total of 880 each month. With relatively few complaints and accidents, these enterprising and patient drivers shoulder the responsibility of seeing that 3028 pupils get safely to school and home again each day.

Under the guidance of Mr. Andrew Canady, aided by Mr. Sutton, Mr. Parks, and Mr. Mays, the driver program ran smoothly and efficiently this year.

Interclub Council co-ordinates the club's parking lot sweeps, and the club presidents are caught stashing a little trash.

Interclub Council keeps peace and co-ordinates activities between clubs

Interclub Council was formed to promote good will and understanding among the service clubs. Members consist of the presidents of each club. They meet the first and third Tuesday of each month. Often, a salesman was at these meetings to present his wares for the clubs to consider selling, in order to finance their projects. Co-ordination of club's activities which centered around the school was one of the council's main jobs. These activities were ones that every club participated in, such as parking lot sweeps and school beautiful clean-ups. All of the clubs were urged to participate in Project Sharp and Tag Day.

This year, the council was faced with a decision made by the school board concerning the voting of sophomores into clubs. After much discussion, the council agreed to accept the board's decision on an experimental basis. President Steve Justice, felt that Interclub Council fulfilled its purpose of keeping peace and co-ordinating activities between the clubs.

A teacher service program was continued by the Anchor Club

Anchor Club, Grimsley's youngest service club, is now firmly established in its second year of service to Grimsley. The teacher service program which was initiated last year by the Anchors was continued with success. The girls gave up their study halls to help teachers with typing, grading papers, and running errands. The members participated in a safety project in which they kept a record of any traffic offenses committed by their boyfriends on dates. Collecting for White Cane and muscular dystrophy on tag days and contributing to Kabala are other ways in which the Anchors served the school and community. Projects were paid for with profits made from selling candy. At the Anchor convention in Kannapolis, the girls entertained other clubs by putting on a skit. This year Anchor Club was guided by a new faculty advisor, Miss Keever.

Charioteers place blue and white streamers on GHS cars before home games

Charioteers spend before-school time in August weeding and beautifying their grove plot.

The annual Charioteers Fashion Show was held in March at Christ Methodist Church. The show was planned by the Charioteers and sponsored by Laurie's. The girls provided programs and entertainment, refreshments, and, of course, the modeling. This evening of fashion, entertainment, and door prizes was the club's money-making project.

Charioteers spent many hours working in their garden plot, which often seemed more like a jungle filled with unwanted pachysandra that refused to spread, gourds, and weeds.

Every Thursday night, two members of Charioteers went to Wesley Long Hospital and offered their help to those patients restricted to wheelchairs. The girls provided a welcome service by taking those patients down to the chapel. This project was not without some trying experiences. Wheelchairs sometimes got stuck in elevators, and, believe it or not, some of the members even tried to take wheelchairs down the steps instead of the elevators. Nevertheless, the girls' efforts were deeply appreciated, and despite a few mishaps, the project was a success.

The girls joined their brother club, Interact, in giving a Christmas party for underprivileged children. The party included a visit from Santa Claus and Marco the Bear, which delighted the children immensely.

Interact members revive student calendar project, help Charioteers with party for Cone Hospital patients, plan ahead for Norwegian exchange student

Sponsorship summarizes the achievements of Interact's year of service. Together, with the Charioteers, the boys gave a Christmas party for the patients in Cone Hospital. Providing food, Santa, and trimmings, members of Interact handled the monetary portion of the party. The student body welcomed the reinstatement of the student calendar, an Interact project that was discontinued last year. Next year, a student from Norway will come to Grimsley and live with each member, going from house to house alternate months.

Selling night-shirts and raking leaves were successful money-making projects for Interact. With GHS printed on the front, no school-spirited person could resist the blue night-shirts. Raking the leaves of prominent families convinced the boys that this age-old project is worth the time and effort.

Civinettes continue the tradition of washing blackboards for the teachers

The Civinettes joined forces with the Junior Civitans in several of their endeavors this year. The two clubs worked together in helping the Greensboro Jaycees with their "Get out the vote" campaign. The girls helped with babysitting and transportation. On the second Sunday of each month the Civinettes and Civitans attended church together, visiting a different church each month. The two clubs also worked together on Project Sharp. On May 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, the Civinettes and Junior Civitans went to Durham to attend their district convention.

Civinettes continued their traditional service of washing blackboards for the teachers. Another tradition continued was the selling of fruitcakes at Christmas time, for the club money making project. Also at Christmas time, the members contributed to the Empty Stocking Fund, and they helped the Christmas Clearing Bureau by putting up posters downtown, advertising the bureau's services for needy families. Other projects included Tag Days, contributing to Kabala, and working in the rose garden outside the cafeteria.

Civitans edit the fifteenth editon of the Junior Civitan Handbook

Members of the Junior Civitan Club live up to their motto, "Builders of good citizenship", by serving school and community in many ways. Printing the fifteenth edition of the Junior Civitan Handbook was a major project. The handbook is a valuable guide to our sophomores and new teachers who are adjusting to our way of life here at Grimsley. Junior Civitans do their share in keeping the school clean by helping with workdays and participating in parking lot sweeps. The members gave of their time by collecting for Tag Days and working on Project Sharp. Profits from selling Halloween candy helped to finance their projects.

Meetings were held once a week at Libby Hill Seafood and once a month with their sister club, the Civinettes. On the second Sunday of every month, the Civitans joined with Civinettes in visiting various churches around town. The Jr. Civitan's sponsor is Hamilton Lakes Civitan Club.

Exchangettes give monetary support to the GHS library

Besides working with Tag Day and Project Sharp, Exchangettes centered their service around elderly people. The elderly at both Alonso Towers and Evergreens were entertained by the girls at Christmas time and during the year.

Last year, the gift of one-hundred and fifty dollars to the GHS library was well used for contemporary books. Exchangettes raised the money by selling inflatable pillows. Five hundred Whirlie license plates were sold by the girls this year.

To improve their garden plot, the members decided to construct a scenic patio bordered with blue and white pansies. Not only did they beautify their plot, but the girls mowed the grass around Grimsley's tennis courts.

Several of the girls forfeited their seventh period study hall in order to direct activities of mentally retarded children at Lewis Recreation Center.

Exchange Club members help Nigerian child and needy Indians, also join Exchangettes in a picnic and Project SHARP

Continuing previous projects was one of the main goals of the Exchange Club. Project SHARP, Tag Day, and selling T-shirts, were done again this year. Besides the picnic with Exchangettes, the two clubs united together to do their part with Project SHARP. An adopted child in Nigeria was fortunate again this year to be taken care of by Exchange Club. T-shirts and participating in the Teenage Carnival were their money-making projects. Unsold T-shirts from last year were sent to needy Indians in New Mexico. Still recovering from their all night initiation, most of the boys feel that their year has been successful.

With good taste, money, and hard work, Jr. Jaycettes give women teachers' lounge a brand new look Jaycettes started off the year by organizing the buddy system, their annual service project for sophomores. Sending out letters in preparation for this project kept Jaycettes busy during the last weeks of summer. A year round project of the Jaycettes is scrubbing the desks in our classrooms. This project proves to be very interesting to the girls because of the colorful language and unusual expressions found on the desks. Unknown to most students, the Jaycettes completely redecorated the women's lounge. The walls were painted, the furniture re-upholstered, and a new carpet and drapes put in, giving the lounge a whole new appearance. Jaycettes displayed their school spirit by making a prize-winning project for homecoming which was awarded first place in the contest. The girls were glad to help at the GGO by selling programs and running scores to the proper officials. This activity had a double reward: the thrill of seeing golfing "greats" and also the rare opportunity to be away from classes. Jaycettes also gave their time to Projects Sharp and Tag Days.

Jaycee members, disguised as the Whirlie Bird help induce school spirit

Highlighting Jr. Jaycees' year of activities was the State Jaycee Convention which took place in Greensboro. Organization of the convention's meetings, speakers, and free time, was most important to the boys. At last year's convention Boyd Guard was elected governor.

With the adult Jaycees, the boys took part in the Greensboro Paper Drive, the light bulb sales, and the GGO. Proceeds from the bulb sales went to help mentally retarded children and the Little League Baseball team. A senior at Grimsley was able to receive a scholarship from part of the profits made from GGO ticket sales.

Grimsley's new paperback library welcomed the Jr. Jaycee's unselfish monetary contributions.

Homecoming activities included the Jaycee's "Guess The Whirlie Bird" contest. David Kay, a very active member, helped with this contest and the Whirlie of the Week award. The club attributes much of its success to David.

O. Henry Juniors to hostess at state jamboree for the Women's Club

Members of O. Henry Juniors joined with their brother club, Key Club, and attended church as a group one Sunday out of each month, visiting a different church each time.

Also in co-operation with Key Club, the O. Henrys made $100 profit on their booth at the teenage carnival. The booth at the teenage carnival was a pie-throw. People seemed to really enjoy throwing pies at the girls. The girls, too, agreed that it was fun, though very "messy".

The members contributed clothing, make-up, games, and toys to the Golden Door project, a program for mentally retarded children. Other contributions made by O. Henry Juniors include money given to help Kabala, the literary magazine, and a donation of seventy five books to the paper back library. The members also give of their time by helping with Project Sharp and Tag Days.

In August, the O. Henry Juniors Club along with Charioteers and Sub-Juniors, will play the role of hostess at the state jamboree of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Key Club publishes fourteenth edition of student-faculty directory

Members of Key Club spent hundreds of hours compiling the student-faculty directory which they traditionally provided for all Grimsley students. Grimsley's Key Club is one of the few in the nation to give students directories free of charge. Much work went into this project which was begun last summer and lasted four months. With the leadership of John Gravlee, directory chairman, and the special help of Miss Walke, Key Club put out the Grimsley directory for the fourteenth consecutive year.

Along with several other service projects, Key Club took on the responsibilities of sweeping the stadium after games and giving Alma Mater cards to sophomores. For their money-making project, Key Clubbers were auctioned off as slaves to work for Kiwanians, members of their father club. They were paid by the Kiwanians for doing odd jobs such as raking yards.

Ecology-conscious Key Club members started the trend of riding bicycles to school.

To enhance the beauty of their campus garden plot seniorettes declare war on weeds and litter

Since completing the sidewalk along the science building, the Seniorettes have concentrated on further beautification of their plot. In their campaign against litter, the club put a garbage can in the garden.

Every year, the members collect money and food to help needy families to celebrate Christmas and Thanksgiving. The girls participated in Project SHARP by donating a Saturday to help underprivileged children. Last spring, some of the members stood in front of a downtown dime store and collected for the White Cane Drive. Candy bars were such a good money-making project last year, the Seniorettes decided to sell them again this year. Members of Seniorettes feel that the small size of their club keeps them closer together and is the main factor in their success.

Leo Club sponsored a toss-the-coin booth at Teenage Carnival and helped the Lion's Club with a party and projects

Believing in their horoscope has not been the aim of Leo this year. Instead, the members helped their father club, the Lion's Club, with various projects. With the Lions, the boys gave a Christmas party for the blind, collected money for the White Cane drive, and participated in the annual broom sale.

Leo members contributed to school spirit by selling Whirlie car decals. Money from Leo's booth in the Teenage Carnival and broom sales greatly aided their projects.

Steve Gordon took time out of his busy summer to go to the Lion's Club convention in New Jersey. The information he learned benefited Leo this year.

Sub-Juniors finance varied projects by selling Christmas candy

Members of Sub-Juniors were generous with their time in serving others this year. On the second and fourth Thursday of each month, Sub-Juniors went to help at Greensboro Community Center. There they put on programs and helped the children with arts and crafts activities. The girls went Christmas caroling at the Masonic Home and Alonzo Towers throughout the year, putting on programs and helping in any way they could. The Sub-Juniors also served as waitresses at a benefit bridge meeting which was held at UNC-G. The members spent the day of the teachers' meeting last fall as guides for the out-of-town visiting teachers. Other favorite projects include a bake sale, which was held to help finance the state zoo, and the Gold Door project, a program for the children at Murdock's home for the mentally retarded.

The girls contributed to UNICEF by selling Christmas cards and by donating a penny to the fund for each meal they ate. To help finance their many projects, the members sold Christmas candy.

Faculty overwhelms students in annual Student-Faculty basketball game

Optimists financed their various service projects with proceeds from the Student-Faculty basketball game which they took charge of again this year. The members set up the gym for the game, made arrangements for the sale of Cokes, and sold tickets.

The boys participated in a Christmas project in which they filled and addressed 2,400 envelopes for the March of Dimes. They also helped an underprivileged family during the Christmas season. The members gave toys and clothes to the Golden Door project, a program which helps mentally retarded children. At the Teenage Carnival, the Optimists ran a miniature golf course for their project. The boys went on their annual beach trip again this year and stayed at Myrtle Beach. The Optimist Club's new faculty advisor is Mr. Philip Weaver.

Y-Teens' many services aid school and community

Giving their services to school and community, Y-Teens greatly varied their projects. As hostesses at the Miss Christmas Seal tea, they fixed and served refreshments for honored guests. Y-Teens again worked with Project Sharp and entered their display in Homecoming. A clothing drive yielded boxes of clothes to be given to the welfare department. Last spring, the girls helped handicapped children celebrate May Day by giving them a party.

Ingenuity and school spirit spurred the Y-Teens into making a banner lettered "GHS" which the Pep Board used at football and basketball games. The first issue of Grimsley's literary magazine, Kabala, enjoyed success because of the financial aid Y-Teens gave it. Since the laying of eight final bricks, members feel that their garden plot is complete. Plastic Whirlibird key chains were sold in order to finance the Y-Teens many projects.

Students profit by the opaque projectors given to the library by the Hi-Y members

New members of Hi-Y are Dodd, Summers, Tripp, Comer, and Wilson.

Hi-Y's year was a mixture of fun, helping others, and giving service to Grimsley. By their participation in Tag Day, members collected money for various fund raising organizations. They united with the Y-Teens and celebrated Christmas with underprivileged children. Comer and Tripp had a good time playing Santa and Elf.

A great majority of students profit by the opaque projectors given to the library by the Hi-Y club. Bare boy's bathrooms now have mirrors: one of many needed contributions made by Hi-Y. At GHS basketball games, the members threw miniature basketballs to the fans. Large profits from their mug sales and their booth at the Teenage Carnival enabled Hi-Y to give Grimsley such serviceable items. The club's beach trip and hay ride were opportunities for "the guys to get together".

Grimsley's Golf Team and Tennis Team win 1970 State Championships

Grimsley's girls physical education program offers many sports. Along with team sports like volleyball, speedball, and basketball, many individual sports are available. Among these are archery, tennis, and badminton. Last fall field hockey was introduced into the curriculum and the girls really enjoyed playing this sport for six weeks.

1970 GHS Girls' Golf Team, with trophies won in state competition, are Crawford, Sinopli, Phillips, Harris. Golf coach is Miss Addison.

Girl's sports, however, are not limited to gym class. There are numerous teams a girl could join; the girl's basketball team had an eighteen-game schedule, played against Page, Smith, Dudley, and a number of county schools. The tennis team was successful last spring in winning the first annual girls state tennis tournament. The golf team has held the title of State Champions for two straight years. Other teams include a volleyball team, which has won three straight years at the UNC-G play-day; a track team; and a softball team. A girls swimming team coached by Mr. Jamieson enters invitational meets from Atlanta to Cincinnati.

Archery classes demand strength and steady nerves and offer free sun tans.

GAA members roast Grimsley opponent in Homecoming display sell sweatshirts to help finance a camping trip to Camp Cheerio

It is 5:00 in the morning — a time when any self-respecting GHS Whirlie or Whirlie supporter should lie snug in bed. But across from the boys' gym, members of the Girls Athletic Association wait impatiently. Dawn breaks, spilling pink and gold over the horizon, and with it several sleepy heads nod — the end result of too little sleep, too much talking, and a too full stomach from the slumber party of the night before. The gym is finally unlocked, and the girls scurry in, jubilant that by virtue of their chilly vigil they are the very first club to set up their Homecoming project.

GAA is for those girls who like nothing better than to lace a pair of tennis shoes and participate wholeheartedly in such sports as tennis, basketball, track, and volleyball. In the fall, new members were treated to a picnic in the girls' gym. The girls' Homecoming project was a Whirlibird fiendishly roasting an unfortunate Reynolds Demon at the stake. Another project was selling many dozens of Grimsley sweatshirts to help finance that anticipated spring camping trip to Camp Cheerio.

Cheerleaders sell 1,000 antenna toppers, boosting school spirit at GHS

"Sophomore! Junior! Senior!" always seemed to be a battle for the lower classmen, but to the cheerleaders it was a cheer that just couldn't fail. The varsity teams experienced a year of both triumph and defeat on the playing field, but knowing the cheerleaders were there seemed to spur the boys in the blue and white.

To promote spirit, the varsity cheerleaders worked hard to sell the white antenna toppers imprinted with a "G". The girls sold 1,000 of them. Bus trips to cross-city rival schools proved a success both coming and going. Everyone could "feel the spirit" through unity with the passengers. Dinner before several of the games helped the girls know each other better, and sports banquets offered a time of friendship and unity for the players and cheerleaders. New megaphones, donated to the cheering squad this year by several of the service clubs, added spirit and spreading enthusiasm.

Supported by the student body Pep Board sponsored several "Spirit Days" and bus trips

Originality, team work, spirit, and one-hundred and ninety people combined to form the GHS Pep Board this year. Bruce Bingham, chairman of the board, used wit and a sparkling personality to spur on the student body's enthusiasm. Odd hats, faces smudged by ink, and clashing clothes, marked spirit days before the games. The antics of the versatile board members during skits at pep rallies brought peals of laughter and hearty back-slapping from the students. Before the Page football game, a caravan of several hundred cars led by Bruce and a policeman, traveled through the city streets plastered with blue and white streamers and slogans. Pep Boards annual money raising project, the selling of mums during Homecoming, brought in money needed by the board for paint, paper, and other supplies. Bus trips to away games were another project of Pep Board this year.

Pep Board represents the spirit, pride, and loyalty of Grimsley's students. Composed of the students, it is a mixture of their talents, originality, and efforts.

Whirling Boots delight spectators with grace, precision, and spirit

The air is crisp and the spirit among the spectators is high as forty girls parade to the field during halftime. With high kicks and fancy turns, the routine goes quickly, ending with perfect precision. Applause spreads throughout the crowd as the girls march proudly off the field.

Applause after a perfect performance — this is the high point for the Whirling Boots, directed by Tina Sigmond and Wanda Hall. Behind these performances are long hours of practice, four days a week. During the year, the girls marched in the Christmas parade, danced at a Cougar game and during GHS home football games. Being in Whirling Boots helps instill pride within a girl and promotes spirit throughout the group and student body.

Coach Jamieson, builder of character, elevates integrity over glory, sets honor above victory

Coach. This word means more than just an instructor of athletics, for a true coach is a leader, a man of integrity, a man to whom his athletes turn for help and guidance. The word has an intangible air of respect about it, for a coach demands it; Coach Robert Jamieson deserves it. More than any other man, Coach Bob is the prototype of the ideal coach. His dedication to the finest in athletics and the athlete has made him one of North Carolina's most successful coaches and most admired men.

1969 was the last year Coach Jamieson was to coach the Whirlie football team, for his heavy responsibilities as Athletic Director at GHS required increasing amounts of his time. But in the Whirlie tradition of purity of mind and body, a tradition he instituted here, Coach Bob's influence still is, and always will be, felt. Through his years of coaching at Grimsley, he has seen enthusiasm and apathy, winning seasons and a few losing ones; but the goal of his athletic program has been and will continue to be the building of character. The importance of athletics is not the happiness of fans or the win-lose record. It is the benefits derived by the athletes themselves. Pride, honor, self-confidence, and sportsmanship are a few. Using this as a yardstick, one must conclude that no coach will ever surpass Bob Jamieson's success.

Victories pass away and glory is forgotten with time, but character, the Whirlie tradition, will remain to prove his worth.

At 1970 Homecoming game, Coach Jamieson is honored by former athletes and other admirers. Top: Congratulations come from all who attend a reception honoring "Coach Bob." Mrs. Jamieson shares his pleasure. Just above: Mayor pro-tem Jim Melvin speaks praise and presents the Jamiesons a trip to the 1972 Olympics. Below: The GHS gym is the scene of a pregame gathering of fans and well-wishers, many of whom he once coached.

Grimsley defeats future-state champion, Raleigh, in first game

An accurate pass to Phil Jones is rewarded with a Grimsley score.

Approximately ninety boys reported to the Grimsley field house on August 16, 1970, seemingly prepared for the upcoming football season. Mysteriously, after several days of coach Hickey's fourth quarter drills, many of the boys discovered numerous forgotten chores at home. Soreness and blisters had taken their toll.

The sixty boys that remained were molded into Grimsley's 1970 football team. These boys, under the guidance of head coach Bruce Morton, played their first game against Raleigh, defeating the future state champions 8-7. In their next game, against the bulldogs of Durham, the Whirlies tied. Quarterback Jack Elkins scored both touchdowns for Grimsley, and then a safety tied it up. The first loss came against Dudley, a game in which mistakes were very costly to the Whirlies. It seemed that the team was gaining momentum as they next defeated Lynchburg, but their next game was a bitter defeat as they lost to their Page rivals. The remainder of the season went badly for the team, and despite an abundance of talent, they did not win another game in the 1970 season. Mistakes were a main threat to the Whirlies, and were often the difference between a victory and a tie or a defeat. Without these mistakes, the Whirlies would have surely had a better season!

Some of the outstanding Grimsley football players made the All-City Team, a team for the best players in the city only. These boys were Brice Moore, Greg Ward, Jon Gray, and Mike Nichols. Of these four, Jon Gray was the only one to make the All-Conference team also, an even higher ranking squad than the All-City.

Scoreboard finds JV's lacking in points but not in spirit

Grimsley's J.V. football team started the 1970 season at the wrong end of the ladder. Although they lost their first two games, against Salisbury and then Durham, they came from twelve points down in the third quarter to tie Dudley. Two victories followed, one of these a 34-0 killer. In both of these games, kick return man Keith MacDonald ran back kicks for touchdowns. Keith also excelled at halfback, as did Norman Roberts and Albert Butler.

The next game was a bitter defeat to the Whirlies as they lost to their Page rivals. From then on, the Grimsley team seesawed back and forth from ties to losses, and finished the season with a 2-5-3 record. Costly fumbles and other mistakes often cost the Whirlies a win. Eliminating these mistakes next year will prove invaluable to the talented J.V. team.

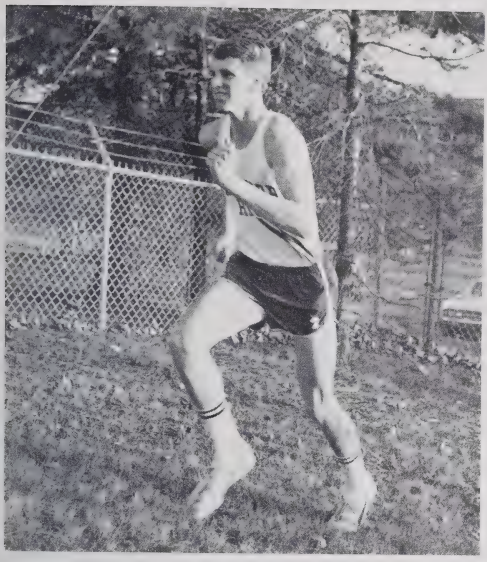
Browder leads cross country team to the state championship



Ken McKinney warms up in preparation for an upcoming cross country meet.

Repeating last year's performance, the 1970 cross country team again surpassed all competition. In a sport where low scores win, the team underscored all opposition in its five meets.

Their high score of twenty four came in their first meet, against Smith. Grimsley then posted a near-perfect low in their second meet to defeat Page 19-40. In their next meet, the Whirlies competed against Page, East Forsyth, and Hargrave, receiving the same score as in the previous meet. The Whirlies next posted a seventeen, coming even closer to a perfect score. Then, in the last meet of the regular season, Grimsley had a perfect score, defeating Pinecrest and Dudley.

The post-season action for the runners began with the Wake Forest Invitational. Here the team suffered their only loss of the year. However, making up for the varsity loss, the J.V. took first place. The Whirlies were victorious in two other meets before they ran in the state meet; the Central 4-A Conference and the Eastern N.C. Sectional. For the first time in Grimsley history, the team won the state championship. The outstanding performers in this meet were Joe Browder, Lucky Anderson, Ken McKinney, Steve Rushton, and Pat McDaid.

Far ahead of all competition, Joe Browder takes another first to top off an undefeated season.

GHS Basketball Team surpasses competition to an 18-1 season

The Grimsley basketball team, with a pre-season national rating of thirteenth, lived up to every expectation during the regular season and posted a final record of 18-1, tying Burlington for the number one position in the Conference. Led by the starting five-Dempsey, McKinney, Ward, Jones, and Chambers — the team began the season with an easy win over Charlotte Garinger, trouncing them 70-49.

Being "the team to beat" for the 1970-71 season and no ill effects on the Grimsley players as they won eight straight games to boost their record to a perfect 9-0. Then came their only loss of the season, when the Whirlies met Burlington on the GHS home court.

Grimsley won two more games before they played Page in what was one of the most unusual games of the year. Page, trying to contain the Whirlies power, attempted to stall the ball. But this failed to stop the Whirlies, and when the final buzzer sounded, the score was tied 11-11. Overtime proved successful, and GHS added another victory.

In the Whirlies bid for the Central 4-A, Group I Title, the team started off well, beating Page by nine points in another slow-down game. In the finals, against Burlington, the Whirlies were plagued by bad luck, and at the end of a triple overtime game, were trailing 52-50.

JV-A Basketball Team captures first place in the conference with a 13-5 record

The JV-A basketball team was extremely talented, and Coach Randall put this talent to it's best use. The team ended with a final 13-5 record, being 7-3 in the Conference. This fine record earned them the number one seat in the Conference and also runner up in the JV Tournament.

High scorer of the JV-A team was David Allen, with a total of 265 points in seventeen games. Next on the list of high scorers was Pete Chauncey, the talented center, with a 237-point total. Pete also led the team in rebounding, averaging eleven per game. The team's free-throw was a fantastic 70 per cent, with a sixty-two point average per game. With this fine record and talent, the team shows what GHS has coming in the future.

The coach of the JV-A basketball team, Jay Randall, draws up a new defense for the members of the team.

Lacking in size, but not in speed, the JV-B team employed the full-court press and fast breaks to end their season with an 8-4 record. The team's strength was evident in their free-throws, with five players hitting better than 69 per cent of all attempts. The end of the season was also evidence of the team's power and spirit, as they won four of the last five games. This loss was a bitter defeat for the Whirlies, as they lost by only one point.

Swimmers capture 7th consecutive first place in State Meet

The 1970-71 swimming season went all according to plan. Being multi-talented and finely coached, the team set many school and state records. In the 200 medley relay, the foursome of Carl Colvard, Tom Berry, Ronnie Self, and Rick Heinen set the first of the state records. Tom Berry also set records for the 200 individual medley and the 100 breast stroke. Ronnie Self excelled in the 100 butterfly and set a school record. In the 200 free style and 100 back stroke, junior Rick O'Hare was outstanding, and to balance the power of the swimmers, James Tingen, also a junior, did extremely well in diving. The team began the season with a meet against ECU JV's, loosing to the college men 63-45. The next three meets were easy wins, then the team suffered another loss, this time against the N.C. State Frosh. Bouncing back from the loss, the team piled up three more wins, and then placed third in the 23rd S.E. Swimming Championship, against 73 other teams. The team then plastered High Point and placed second in the Atlantic Seaboard Championship. After this they lost to the UNC Freshmen, but had three first places in the last three meets, one being the State Meet. Congratulations!

John Dewey, the team captain, became ill and was unable to compete during most of the season. His absence was definitely a handicap to the team.

IN MEMORIAM
JOHN GORDON DEWEY
1952 — 1971

We remember his warmth, kindness, courage and willingness to work for he left a living memorial: an honorable name, a good reputation, a fighting spirit and a genuine concern for others.
We remember well his quick smile which was a reflection of a happy life dedicated to a desire to distinguish himself, but we shall not forget his active interest and unselfish concern for the well-being of the team and friends.
We remember, too, the strength and depth of his determination, his enthusiasm and loyalty to his church, his school and his sport for his sole participation revolved around things that were good . . . activities that were clean and wholesome.
May the memory of his purpose and direction in life remain with us in our struggle to succeed in something worthwhile.

Coach Robert Sawyer

Statistics show another championship season for the GHS wrestlers

The Grimsley 1970-71 Wrestling Team was not hindered by the loss of three starters. Early in the season, injuries put Phil Jones, Bill Ripley, and Doug Calvin out of action. Jones, top wrestler in the 185 pound class, was undefeated up to the point of his injury.

Unperturbed by the absence of one-fourth of the starters, the Whirlies went to post a final team record of nine wins and six losses. Then Coach Robinson, aided by Coaches Bounds and Barber took the wrestlers to the sectional meet, where they took a fourth place tie with Northeast.

Outstanding members of the team included David Neese, who led the unlimited class with an 11-4 record. In the 155 weight group, Larry Coggins finished with 11-4 record. The 147 pound group was led by Jim Ward, who finished with twelve wins and three losses. He was undefeated in conference matches. Lucky Anderson topped the 122-pound class with ten wins and five losses. The wrestlers were rounded out by John Marks, whose 11-3 record in the 98-pound group earned him a trip to the state meet. Accompanying him were Neese and Coggins. David Neese, urged on by enthusiastic fellow wrestlers placed fifth in the North Carolina state wrestling meet.

Whether they win or lose, Coach Robinson congratulates the wrestlers on their fine effort.

1970 Golf Team takes second place in Sectional Tournament

The whizzing of golf balls through the cool spring air marked the beginning of Grimsley's 1970 golf season. Under the guidance of Coach Robert Jamieson, the team played after-school rounds to prepare for the regular season. When the season started, the Whirlies were ready.

For their first match, the team traveled to Burlington to compete against five schools. Here, led by Melvin Miller's round of 73, the Whirlies charged their way to a first place tie with Page. In their second match of the season, the Grimsley golfers captured second place, topped only by Page. The Whirlies then placed a disappointing third, but redeemed themselves in their next match with a first, defeating their Page rivals. In this match, the Grimsley swingers posted their best score of the year. The regular season ended with a match at Longview Golf Course in which the Whirlies took fourth place.

The regular season over, the team looked ahead to the important post-season tournament. For their first round the Whirlies went to Winston-Salem for the Conference match. Against stiff competition, Grimsley placed fifth.

The final match of the season, the Blair Park Sectional, took place on May fifth. Here, the team kept up Grimsley's winning tradition by capturing second place, beating out eight other teams.

For his fine effort and contributions to the Whirlie cause, Gordon Johnson was voted most valuable player and received the Golfer-of-the-Year trophy.

GHS baseball team takes the Central 4-A Group I Championship

After a tough first game with West Forsyth that ended in a 4-4 tie, Grimsley's 1970 baseball team slugged out three straight wins, two over Raleigh Broughton, and another with West Forsyth. In their next game, against Reynolds, the Whirlies lost for the first time, but got revenge in the second Reynolds game. They continued their onslaught with five straight wins, three of which were against the crosstown rivals of Dudley, Page, and Smith. The Whirlies then experienced a two game losing streak, one of these against Page and the other against Smith. They came out of their slump and finished the schedule with three wins and a 12-3-1 record, which earned the team the title of Central 4-A, Group 1 champions. Unfortunately, in the state playoffs with Raleigh Broughton, Grimsley was edged 2-0. However, the outstanding effort of each player combined with the teamwork of the Whirlies earned them a final 12-4-1 record.

Backing up the varsity with an equally fine season, the Grimsley JV team ended the 1970 baseball season with an 11-2 record.

The remainder of the varsity team, combined with the upcoming JV players, insure the Whirlies a fine 1971 baseball season.

1970 Whirlie trackmen capture 3 first places in 4 season meets

Coach Sawyer's 1970 track team had a fine season, placing well in four meets. After losing their first meet with Smith by only two points, the Whirlies next gained a victory by defeating two other schools. Grimsley then competed in a meet involving four schools and ran away with another first place. The team ended the regular season with another four-school meet and another first place, giving the Whirlies a well-earned 3-1 record. After the regular season, in the City-County Meet against tough competition, the track men took fourth place. Then in the Central 4-A Conference Meet and also in the Sectional Track Meet, Grimsley raced for fifth place.

Joe Browder led the runners in the mile and twice broke the school record, with a best time of 4:25.5. An injury kept him out of the state meet. Randy Poole excelled in the hurdles, with an undefeated regular season and a 14.7 best time. After placing second in the state meet, Randy also competed in the Duke-Durham Relays, a meet in which, against high schools and colleges from four states, he hurdled his way to fourth place. Although these two trackmen made the records, the coaches and the whole team deserve to be congratulated on a fine season.

The correct form is important in making a fast start, as displayed by Dick Schwartz.

Randy Poole wins another in the high hurdles, with a best time of 14.7 seconds.

Joe Browder runs away with another first place in the gruelling mile.

Chip Stam leads Whirlies' 1970 Tennis Team to 10-2 record

Coach Mac Thacker's 1970 tennis team was one of the most talented and well-disciplined groups Grimsley High School has ever produced. Out of the twelve matches that they played, they lost only two, neither one of these losses to Greensboro schools. The team quickly established itself as the champion in the Central Sectional, and then went on to place second in the Conference.

The hard-working boys in white shorts were quick to prove themselves excellent players. Number one in the singles was junior Chip Stam, whose speed and skill made him the city champion and qualified him for the state finals. Accompanying him to the finals was the doubles team of Andy Sykes and Stuart Gordon, two players who constantly aided the Whirlies in their quest for victory. Another outstanding member of the team was senior Don Vaughan, the number two man in the singles next to Stam. This combination of outstanding players in the singles, along with a great doubles team, proved to be a winning combination for Grimsley. The Team played a fine season, and as there was only one senior to be lost after graduation, it is likely that the team will return for a repeat performance in 1971.

Thirty-three percent of our years at GHS are over as we close the sophomore year. What do we have to show for it? Plenty!

We've proven congruencies, peddled pencils, stuffed ourselves with club chocolate, and purchased ribbons and tickets to plays, elevators, games, barbecues, and dances. We have bred fruitflies, washed gym suits, and gone out to lunch every chance we got. With bleary eyes we have awakened at dawn for driver's ed, learned obscure languages such as French and Latin (and English), dissected frogs, weathered broiling hot days and cold between classes, and learned to swim when GHS became the Everglades. We now know what to scream when cheerleaders yell, "What's the Sophomore battle-cry?" Now we can sing the Alma Mater after faking it so often. Boys and girls, teachers, tests, and weekends have provided us with endless conversation matter.

Now we not only know more about others, but also of ourselves. No longer does the strangeness of our school overwhelm us. Instead, we can now feel an integral part of it as we anticipate the sixty-six percent of GHS to come.

And when we come back next year as Juniors . . . WATCH OUT!!!

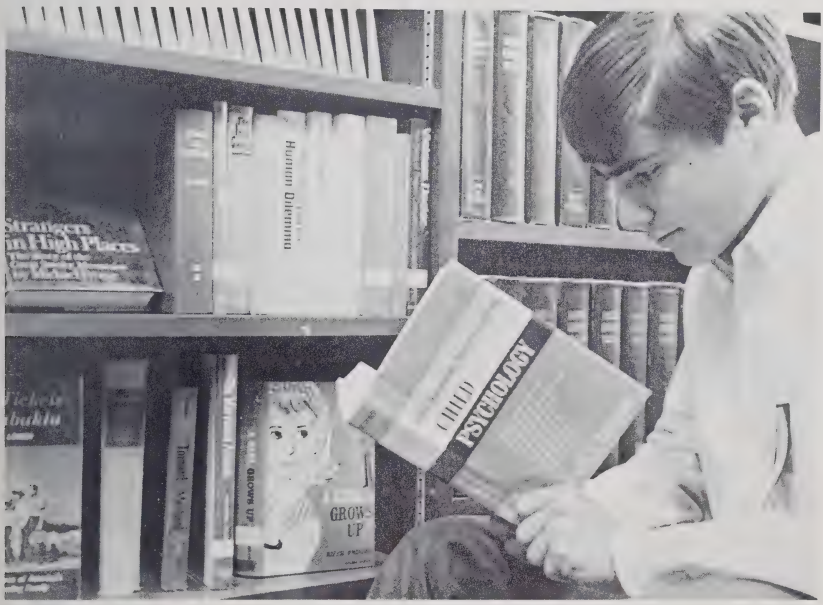
Sophomores discover first high school year holds many varied activities



The library presents sophomores a startling selection of books.

Weary sophomore relaxes to munch a bunch at lunch.

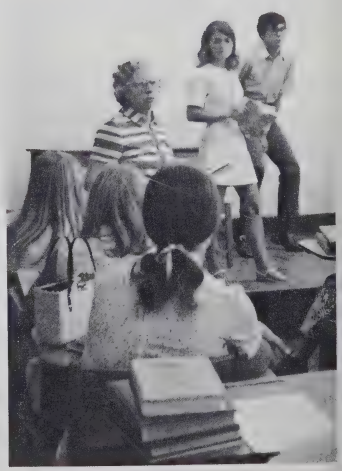
Juniors volunteered countless after-school hours to prepare for their class project.

Polished results, from weeks of rehearsals, are exhibited for a large audience in this dramatic scene from "Father Knows Best."



Juniors (above) go all-out to prove their worth as actors to Miss Causey, who conducts try-outs for the class play.

Junior Class play, "Father Knows Best", is tremendous success

Junior class officers are Cameron, Stout, Lane, and President Mendenhall.

The junior year is like a play;
The stage is the school itself.
Students are actors and actresses
Who gather in knowledge and wealth.

The cunning plot of Grimsley's play
Is the juniors' entire school year.
It tells of paths that juniors go,
Of friends and places held so dear.

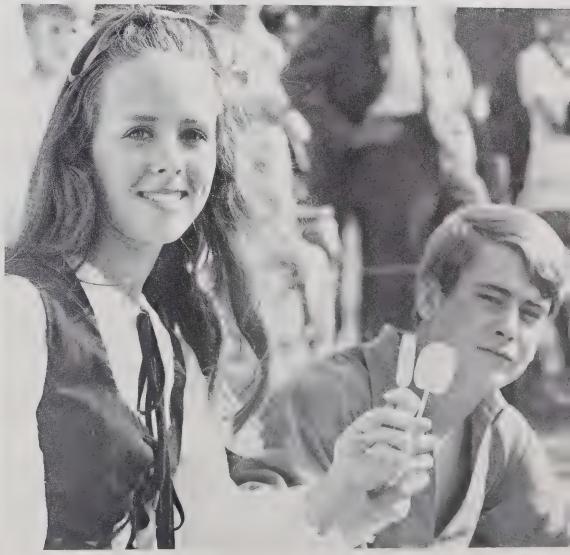
Books, papers, projects act as props,
Each differing from the rest.
So the students as the characters
Must act alone to do their best.

The climax comes in several parts:
The rings, the junior class play,
The Prom, PSAT's, and college boards —
These finished, leave a smooth, clear way.

Term papers, short stories, history;
Service clubs, work days, and more —
These all give way to greater things:
That the senior year has in store.

The junior year comes to an end,
Success is now assured.
All preparation at last is done,
And the curtain is raised for good.

Since 1919 the style has changed, but the pride in wearing a class ring still remains the same.



To Gretel, Susan Stevens, happiness is a lollipop, a warm day, and a handsome Hansel, played by Bruce Bingham in the 1970 May Day.

Juniors show varied attitudes toward the rigors of a Saturday session with SAT's.

". . . The frightened brain, the nervous will, the knowledge of what must be done,

The passion to acquire the skill to face that which you dare not shun . . .

This is the terminal, the break. Beyond this point, on lines of air,

You take the way that you must take . . ."

Yvor Winters

". . . This is the terminal, the break. Beyond this point, on lines of air, you take the way that you must take . . ."

In all the rush of Senior Year we may take time out to look back on what Grimsley has or has not done to prepare us for life. As our Senior Year draws to a close, we begin to evaluate our performance throughout high school. It becomes very apparent that for all the instruction, patience, and opportunity we have been given at GHS, our ultimate success or failure depends upon our own initiative. This fact goes not only for our performance in high school but also for whatever challenges lie ahead. As it is reflected in the poem above, success or failure, however we define it, will come as a result of individual achievement.

Though graduation is a time of seriousness for everyone, it affects each senior with a personal, unique emotion.

From the outside looking in.

Individual achievement: one step toward the realization of a personal goal

Individual achievement has many definitions and takes many forms. For some, achievement may be getting accepted at Dartmouth; for others, obtaining membership in a school service club; for still others, passing an algebra exam. All of these fulfillments are achievement. The importance of achievement, in one form or another, is that it moves an individual one step further toward realizing a personal goal. As Seniors near the end of our final year in high school, we are seeing the results of such achievement. A year of college, trade school, employment, or marriage looms ahead. Perhaps such prospects overwhelm us with their newness or difference; however, these situations are only new channels for achievement. We move our goal from the National Honor Society to Phi Beta Kappa. We think in terms of professional basketball instead of place on the high school varsity squad. Our thoughts move from planning our own lives to planning the lives of our children. These goals are more far-reaching than our goals have been over the past three years. As we mature, our outlook matures also. Through greater and higher achievement, we move progressively toward the ultimate goal . . . SUCCESS.

The individual talents of Seniors in AP English merge in the writing and producing of "E.Q."

The pent up emotions of this Senior Football player find release in a tense moment of football action.

Personal contact (above), a friendly gab session with friends at break, is part of GHS spirit. Even students seriously engaged in chemistry lab study (below), find moments of humor.

Applewhite, Folk, Gaynor, and Pitts are honored this year as Greensboro Youths of the Month

Bruce Bingham, Chairman of Grimsley Pep Board, is an example of real school spirit in constructive action

Eighteen seniors exhibit excellence in scholarship by being chosen as National Merit Semi-Finalists

Seniors pay rapt attention to the speaker at assembly.

An assembly finally tires Tim Taylor, who finds his sleep undisturbed.

Hustling Jon Gray, anchor of Grimsley's defensive line, is chosen as all-conference tackle

Senior boys can get down to business when the need calls for it, and the need calls when a term paper is due.

All that is left of high school for the seniors is memories, which the Whirligig can keep fresh.
